Core Belief (1-line Purpose)

thatclothing exists to transform the way people experience fashion, ensuring that everyone, regardless of body type, can access stylish and affordable clothing. We believe in celebrating individuality by offering fits that feel designed just for you, enabling a confident and authentic expression through every outfit.

Assumptions

thatclothing implies a desire to revolutionize the clothing industry, aiming to challenge stereotypes around body types and fashion fit. The brand seems to emphasize inclusivity and accessibility, particularly for those who struggle with finding clothing that fits properly. It can be inferred that the brand also targets consumers who value functional yet stylish apparel at an affordable price. There's an ambition to create a community of individuals who feel empowered through clothing, suggesting a deeper focus on customer satisfaction and loyalty.

Brand Origin Story

Growing up with a lean body, the founder often faced criticism and frustration in finding clothes that fit well without the hefty price tag of customization. This personal challenge highlighted a market gap for affordable, well-fitted clothing for all body types. Driven by a desire to create a solution, thatclothing was born. The brand emerged from understanding the silent struggles of many who feel unrepresented in the fashion industry. By focusing on the needs of those with diverse body types, thatclothing aims to revolutionize the market with designs that offer both style and comfort without compromise.

Emotional Connection

Before Our Brand

Before discovering thatclothing, customers often feel like they are lost in a sea of ill-fitting options, their sense of individuality muted by the limitations of traditional fashion lines. They experience a sense of invisibility and frustration, yearning for clothing that respects their unique dimensions and self-expression.

After Our Brand

After experiencing thatclothing, customers evolve into self-assured individuals, confidently able to express their personalities through thoughtfully designed apparel. With each garment, they reclaim their identity and showcase a newfound confidence. The experience is empowering, as they feel fully seen, celebrated, and understood by their wardrobe.

Differentiation Statement

thatclothing distinguishes itself by ensuring every design is tailored to celebrate all body types. It transcends trends by providing timeless, high-quality apparel that prioritizes personal expression over fashion's fleeting whims. The brand communicates with customers warmly and professionally, fostering loyal relationships through a commitment to inclusivity and affordability.
